The delightful harbour village of Maidens situated on the largely unexplored coastline of south-western Scotland and just 1½ miles from magnificent golf at Turnberry is the enviable location for this lovingly restored fisherman's bothy. Boasting its own private decked sitting out area it is surrounded by the owners' pretty garden complete with pond whilst the harbour village green and coastline abundant with birdlife are almost on the doorstep. Close by Culzean Castle is well worth a visit as are Souter Johnnie's Cottage at Kirkoswald and the Burns National Heritage Centre at Alloway. Trips to the island of Arran depart from Ardrossan and day trips to Northern Ireland from Stranraer are easily possible. Troon is 20 miles. An excellent restaurant is within a short stroll and Maidens has a village shop.
