Beautiful expanses of sands at both Hayle Towans and Carbis Bay are within 3 miles of this charming old manor house full of character and boasting many original features in its spacious interior. Enjoying its own garden it sits adjacent to the owners' home and adjoining properties within easy reach of a host of delights. Visitors can leave the car behind and take the picturesque branch line train which hugs the coast from St Erth to St Ives or for the more energetic the same route can be followed along the coastal path right into the heart of St Ives where amidst its quaint narrow streets the Tate Gallery the Barbara Hepworth Museum and many other delightful galleries shops and restaurants are to be found. Paradise Park with its exotic birds is just half a mile away whilst St Michael's Mount and Trengwainton Garden (both N.T.) and the bustling town of Penzance for ferry and helicopter crossings to the Isles of Scilly are only a few minutes' drive; Land's End the Porthcurno Telegraphy Museum and Minnack open air theatre are all a little further afield. Go karting golf tennis fishing and horse riding are all available close by and there are pubs shops and resaurants in Hayle just 1 mile away.
